The Hotel on North, Pittsfield

In the Berkshires region of Western Massachusetts, Pittsfield has long been overshadowed by its high-end next door neighbor, Lenox. But things are coming together nicely for Pittsfield, thanks to popular fixtures like the Hotel on North. Located on the Western end of North Street, the hotel features food and cocktails at EAT + DRINK and acclaimed chef Ron Reda, who formerly cooked at the White House under Bill Clinton. The hotel's had a significant effect on the general area at large, including a regional theatre expansion one block away, a retail shop called Dory + Ginger attached to the hotel, a hip cocktail bar called Methusela, a tapas restaurant called Mission and lots more. A big part of the hotel's success and its impact on the town is its involvement with preservation and community outreach. The property's very involved with the community, frequently hosting events for organizations like the Berkshire Leadership Program. Additionally, The Hotel on North was just given the prestigious 2017 Paul & Niki Tsongas Award for its preservation efforts in Pittsfield.
