North and Inches

Beds and Oysters in the Berkshires

Pin it

Road trip.

We're just putting that out there.

And as for your destination... we're just putting that out there, too.

There's about to be a vacancy at Hotel on North, an early-20th-century men's emporium turned Berkshires hotel with oysters and claw-foot tubs to spare, now taking reservations for June 1.

Know this:

There's a highly dapper backstory.

Back in 1910, this was a storied men's outfitter called the Bess-Clarke. It was probably witness to some spectacular mustaches.

And a highly dapper present.

They've taken that old-school gentlemen's club aesthetic and run with it. Hence the generous distribution of velvet armchairs, tin ceilings, gas fireplaces and claw-foot tubs across its 45 rooms. (This is your slideshow.)

Oysters and charcuterie await you downstairs.

At a hybrid eating/imbibing/raw bar situation called Eat and Drink on North. On the eat side, you'll make quick work of Korean BBQ duck from a former Ace Hotel chef. On the drink side, you'll slink onto a leather sofa with a Where's the Money, Lebowski? It's got vodka, cream and cold brew in it.

You're ending it all in the Library Suite.

There you'll find floor-to-ceiling bookshelves and a separate sitting room with a full wet bar.

You don't half-ass a wet bar.
