Several storied hotels in the region also continue to hold their appeal, however. Bibliophiles should book Hotel on North in downtown Pittsfield for its Library Suite. Tucked away into a corner of a 100-year-old building, the room features 125 bookshelves filled with books donated from the community alongside memorabilia and design pieces. The hotel itself is fashioned from two 19th-century buildings on the National Register of Historic Places. Exposed brick walls, tin ceilings, and decorative columns are only a few of the charming nods to its heritage.
